Temporary Offices with Remodel Design on the Horizon

Our weekly wrap of Inland Empire news with longtime IE journalist and KVCR News contributor Cassie Macduff was on hiatus for a few weeks. But she is back on the air. This is a good time to explain one of the reasons why we didn't have Cassie for a few weeks.

Both KVCR radio and TV moved out of our studios in the KVCR building on the San Bernardino Valley college campus, and moved into two little portable trailers -- you know, FEMA-style trailers, while our building is going through a great big technical renovation.

As radio and TV stations are required to do from time to time, we are having to update our technology that is, in some cases, nearly two decades old. We're getting the latest TV and radio technology installed, in addition to remodeling the studios and offices that house KVCR employees. So, while that is going on for the next few months, KVCR TV is operating out of one little trailer, and radio is operating out of another trailer in our parking lot next to our building.

We've done a good job of replicating a simple radio studio in the back corner of the front trailer. You the listener will not notice the fashionably-retro faux-wood paneling from the 1970s. What you may notice is that the paneling "warms" the studio acoustics. As we do traffic breaks, listeners enjoy the natural sound of trucks on the adjacent arterial. And weather forecasts are frequently accompanied by the sound of crows perched overhead.

So we're hoping that our displacement from our habitat will not affect you, and we're doing our best to make sure you don't notice anything different. But because we've actually been doing this move over the past couple of months, our studio interview space has been dismantled. We are now back up and running with more than one microphone in our little studio and Cassie is back.

TV Production Focuses on New TV Pledge Event

Join KVCR and our partners, STEMS for a Do It Yourself class adventure. During this class STEMS will show KVCR members how to create the perfect cheese board for holiday entertaining. They'll provide tips on portioning, teach about different cheeses as well as provide recommendations for pairing complementary textures and flavors, along with a wine pairing of 3 Artisan Wines lead by a sommelier.

Every guest will leave with a Mini Flower Arrangement and a Charcuterie/Cheese Board that will serve 2-4 people. The perfect event for holiday entertaining. Normally a $149 event but STEMS is supporting KVCR and we're able to offer it to you for a donation of just $95. Come alone and meet new friends or bring a bunch of your friends to this KVCR event. Call 800-533-5827 or go online at KVCR.org/events to reserve your seat at our table.

With the KVCR studio currently under construction we took our camera's down the road. The Boys & Girls Club in Redlands was the perfect location to shoot our pledge breaks, and with their floral panels they had the perfect backdrop for our floral event.

May 18 - Armed Forces Day
Thanks to President Harry S. Truman, it's a day to pay special tribute to the men and women of the Armed Forces. According to AmericanIndian.si.edu the Department of Defense recognizes that today's military successes depended heavily on Native Americans. Some interesting facts about Native Americans in the Armed Forces:

-31,000 American Indian and Alaska

Native men and women are on active duty today, serving in Iraq, Afghanistan, and elsewhere around the world.

-140,000 living Native Americans are veterans. 11.5% of these veterans are female, as compared to 8 percent of all other ethnicities.

-Native Americans served in the post-9/11 period in a higher percentage than veterans of other ethnicities, 18.6 percent vs. 14 percent, respectively.

FNX would like to spotlight all those Native Americans currently serving or who have previously served in the Armed Forces. We invited guests to post a picture of yourself or a loved one in the comments.
